Take Me Out to the Ball Game

Beyond the Perf

After two years on the Citizens' Stamp Advisory Committee (CSAC), I thought I had seen everything. Then a proposal for a stamp honoring the 100th anniversary of the song "Take Me Out to the Ball Game" came up. Immediately four of my esteemed colleagues broke into song, swaying back and forth, shoulder to shoulder, "Let me root, root, root for the home team, If they don't win it's a shame. For it's one, two, three strikes, you're out, at the old ball game." The vote was unanimous; a stamp would be issued in 2008.

As CSAC reviews numerous stamp proposals received by the Postal Service each year, it delves into all aspects of the subject. This song, for example, has a wonderful story. Its lyrics were born on a New York City train in the summer of 1908, when passenger Jack Norworth—a songwriter who had never attended a major-league ball game—saw a sign about an upcoming game at the Polo Grounds. Suddenly inspired, he took out a scrap of paper and began dashing off lines about a fictional fan he called Katie Casey. Katie "was baseball mad," he wrote, and when asked by her beau to a show, she replied, "Take me out to the ball game / Take me out with the crowd...."

Composer Albert Von Tilzer set Norworth's words to music and the York Music Company published the song the same year. Although the song wasn't an instant hit, it soon caught on with baseball fans and became a favorite of ballpark organists across the country.

Art director Richard Sheaff used a vintage trade card to create this timeless treasure honoring the game and its seventh-inning traditions. As the 2008 baseball season winds to a close, look for me in the stands cheering on my favorite team—yes, the Dodgers. I'm happy to share my "peanuts and cracker jack."

A "Take Me Out to the Ball Game"

One of the most popular baseball songs of all time, "Take Me Out to the Ball Game" remains part of the musical tradition at ballparks around the country, especially during the seventh-inning stretch. The basis for the stamp art is a circa-1880 trade card from the personal collection of art director Richard Sheaff.

Though diminutive and unassuming, Yoda is remarkably agile with a lightsaber and possesses keen insight into the Force. This issuance celebrates the wise teacher and respected member of the Jedi Council.
